

Electronic Tools

Excel templates for assessment approaches

The Expert report on a Temperature module for the Modular Stepwise Procedure (December 2011) includes three assessment approaches. Essentially, these are described in such a way that they can be understood and used without the need for any specific tools. However, application of the approaches involves the calculation of various assessment parameters and the evaluation of large amounts of data. To facilitate these calculations, standardize procedures and reduce the effort involved, electronic tools have been developed in the form of Excel templates.

The concise documentation provides an overview of the three Excel files and includes basic information on how they are to be used. Further details can be found in an information sheet contained in each of the Excel files and can be downloaded on the French or German Webpage.

Excel templates are available free of charge and can be ordered using a form [available on the German and French webpage. By doing so, you accept the Terms and conditions of use, available on the German and French Webpage.